GROUP DINING PACKAGES

A céad míle fáilte – one hundred thousand welcomes awaits you at Nancy Hands.

“Described as ‘more than just a pub’ with authentic Victorian surroundings, where the great tradition of Nancy Hand, Dublin’s famous 18th century publican, is carried on.”

The 30 Greatest Pubs in Dublin, Ian Hirst

Nancy Hands is more than just a pub - it is an Irish experience. Gather around blazing open fires with friends and enjoy traditional Irish bands with a pint of the black stuff whilst experiencing the finest Irish fare that Dublin has to offer...or step back in time by soaking in the atmosphere perched at our authentic Victorian bar surrounded by antiques and Irish memorabilia. Tread the steps of our original staircase from Trinity College and admire our collection of rare Guinness posters chronicling a lifetime of Guinness advertisingor simply take a pew in our cosy snugs and corners and while-away the hours in good company.

A short stroll from Heuston station, the Liffey or the foot of the Phoenix Park and within a stone’s throw of the world famous Guinness Brewery, Nancy Hands is as ‘Dublin’ as it gets, a place where regulars, Dubliners and tourists alike mingle with ease to enjoy a fabulous array of traditional and craft beers, wines, spirits and of course the very best of Irish Whiskey.

Whether you are looking for an intimate meal for two or to host an event for 300, our menus and spaces are perfect for any occasion and set us apart as a unique experience within the heart of Dublin.

Steeped in history and lore yet in touch with fast-paced world of today, Nancy Hands embodies everything that is great about a proper Irish pub experience. Nancy was Dublin’s first female publican and was a legend of her day, becoming famous for her welcome and for her hospitality. Whilst her legendary name still adorns the ornate dome copper-frieze window outside, the legacy of her hospitality still lives on within.
